You don't need to look at the music to play it on double strings. Just let the bow play also on the open E string whenever you are playing on the A string, and let the bow rub also on the A string when you are playing on the D string. This is what the music looks like when you write in all those open drone strings. Don't let it scare you. Now that you understand how to add the double strings, you know it is easier than it looks
